OFFICIAL TRAIL RIDE 1937

OUR THIRD CALL ON MOUNT ASSINIBOINE

This was our third Official Trail Ride to Mount Assiniboine, but repetition did not deter the old timers, who turned out in good numbers, with Fletcher Brady and Dr. Gow as usual holding up the tail end of the line. Our route was not quite the same as on the previous rides. In 1927 we went over Allenby Pass at the south end of Brewster Creek to the Camp at Lake Magog. In 1932 we reversed 1937 and made our first night's camp at Sunshine Valley Cabin. There were other changes also which the old timers remembered. Harold Eustace Key was no longer in charge of the organ, though we had a very effective newcomer in Allan Crawford. Wilf. Carter whose Yodels of 1932 still seemed to echo in the mountains is now the Montana Slim of an American broadcasting chain. However, we had George Fisher with his celebrated Alimony and another newcomer, expert on the harmonica, in the handsome presence of Russell Grawl, so there was music galore.

There were fifty-seven Trail Riders on horseback and one on her own four paws, who lived up to her name of 'Gypsy', and was fittingly rewarded at the end of the ride with a silver button. Seventeen had put in some days hardening up at Mrs. Bill Brewster's

Dude Ranche at Kananaskis. These had the advantage of being able to pick out their horses and saddles in advance, but, after all, the rest of us could not complain, for the horses brought in this year by Claude Brewster and Ed. Ogan were generally conceded as being the best yet on the Trail Ride. Ed, who had established the camps in advance, reported the trails in good shape, the C.P.R. Hotel Department having sent out a couple of trail men to clear out any deadfall beyond the limits of Banff National Park. Bill Potts, head of the Warden Service, had detailed Bill Nish to ride ahead of our party and generally look after us.

The first morning's ride up Brewster Creek was cool and pleasant, and we reached the old shacks at the half way in ample time for lunch. Carl Rungius, our weather prophet, however, looked at the clouds and shook his head. He was right, for in the afternoon we were caught in a drenching shower which followed us right into camp. Yet it was a pleasant ride, for after passing through much second growth we came into a magnificent stand of tall timber, all the more fragrant because of the rain. Clouds obscured the glacier at the head of Brewster Creek, except for occasional glimpses.

Fortunately the teepees were already up, so that we came into a dry camp. New friendships were quickly cemented round the teepee fires, and the grub was voted first-rate.

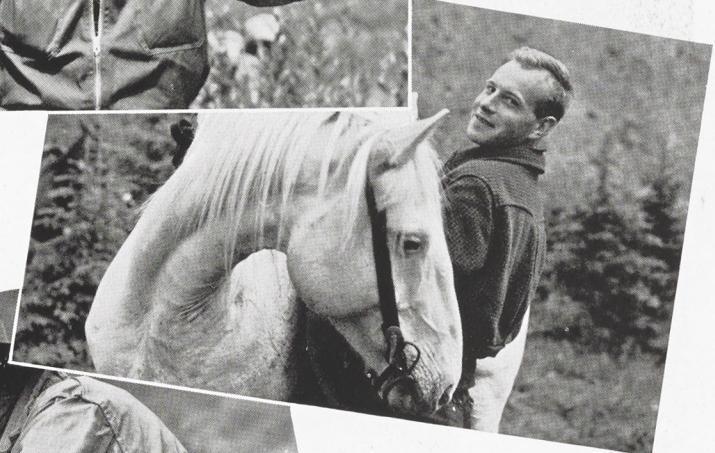

The sun rose next morning on a more promising day, though Carl still shook his head. The wisdom of going round by Og Pass was realized when we found the trail so good, with such a variety of scenery. At one time we seemed to be riding away from Mount Assiniboine, a glorious vision through a gap, and then we swung round a mountain through a flower-decked Valley into the wide Alpine prairie at the base of this massive peak. It was cloudy, but Assiniboine itself was clear, and the cameras were busy clicking, while the teepees were being put up where the poles had been cut and the brushwood piled. There was a sing-song round the open campfire until the hour of cocoa, continued later into the night in individual teepees.

Next morning the President's teepee was wakened by a peel of laughter. This was Carl Rungius laughing his head off, "What's the joke?" — "Look outside" said Carl. Sure enough, it was snowing — and snowing hard. "I guess it's raining in Banff," he said "but here and at the North Pole it's snowing. Some one get me a cup of hot coffee." "You're still dreaming, Carl" said the President. "These are not snowflakes, they're butterflies." — Gosh! is that so!" said Carl, and laughed again till he had to be suppressed with a pillow.

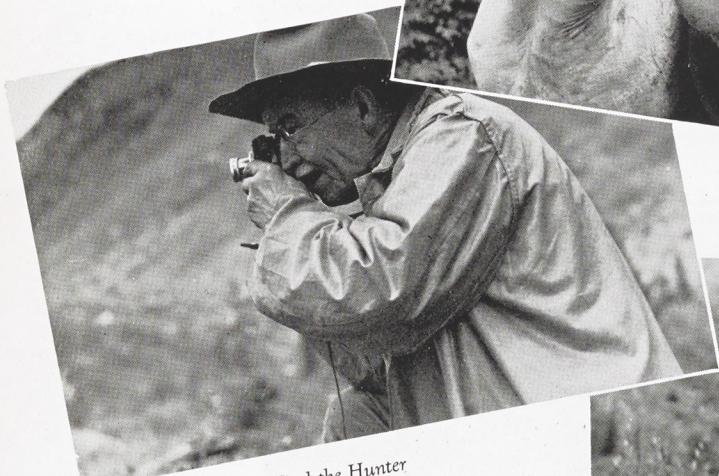

We certainly looked like an Arctic Exploration when we got out and round to the cook tent, but after all we found that snow has its advantages. Curiously enough, it was much warmer than we would have expected, and although feet got damp and teepees became drying tents, quite a number of us were glad of the change from riding. In the afternoon the weather lifted a little. One venturesome soul went on to Marvel Lake and came back raving at its beauty. Others went to Sunburst Lake. Thirty of us walked or rode over to Erling Strom's Lodge and Cabins where Mrs. Strom served us afternoon tea with delicious cakes and cookies. Erling Strom himself gave us a talk on the Assiniboine Country and what it offered both in Summer and in Winter. He told us of the early days (in 1928) when he came out with Marquis d'Albizzi to establish a Ski Camp, and how skiing was growing to be a major sport in this part of the world. He also read to us his log record of the weather, which indicated that this was rather an unusual summer snowstorm for so early in August. Three of us liked his Cabins so much that they elected to remain for a longer stay, while another, anxious to get movies, went off to June Brewster's new Camp at Sunburst Lake.

On the fourth morning, though there were signs of better weather, it was decided to move out on the homeward trail through the Valley of the Rocks. We had not ridden an hour before we found ourselves in green meadows without a sign of snow, and realized that this had been a local storm. Even the trail was dry, and only the higher ridges of our mountain walls indicated that there had been any weather. Overcoats were discarded, and when we reached Porcupine Camp for lunch, it seemed unbelievable that the climate should be so different only ten miles away. That afternoon, however, we had to climb over two thousand feet up Citadel Pass to cross the high plateau of the Simpson, and there our trail took us over a blanket of snow, reminding us of our Camp at Assiniboine. The scenery on either side of us as we rode over the plateau was of spectacular grandeur, a vast panorama of rugged peaks, splashed with hanging glaciers, stretching to west and to east. Then again as we approached Sunshine Valley we came into green swards and into another warm climate. Sunshine Valley lived up to its name, and provided us with a beautiful campsite, sheltered with trees and watered by a creek crystal clear.

The result was that although we had provisionally arranged to house the thirty ladies of our party in Jim Brewster's new Ski Lodge at the head of Sunshine Valley, only eleven of them elected to sleep under cover of a roof. However, those of us who were not too tired went up to the Lodge to give it a Sing-Song as housewarming, and there Paddy and Mrs. Nowlin served us with delicious cocoa and cakes.

Jim Brewster has selected a beautiful location for his Ski Lodge, which last season had so many winter visitors that he has had to build an extension, so that now as many as fifty guests can be taken care of. The Lodge is solidly built in rustic style, and is certainly well heated. It lies in a sheltered pocket surrounded by excellent terrain for skiing, and as the road up Healey Creek has been considerably extended, it is now very accessible from Banff. We were certainly glad of this opportunity to see what is being done to cater for the rapidly growing army of ski enthusiasts.

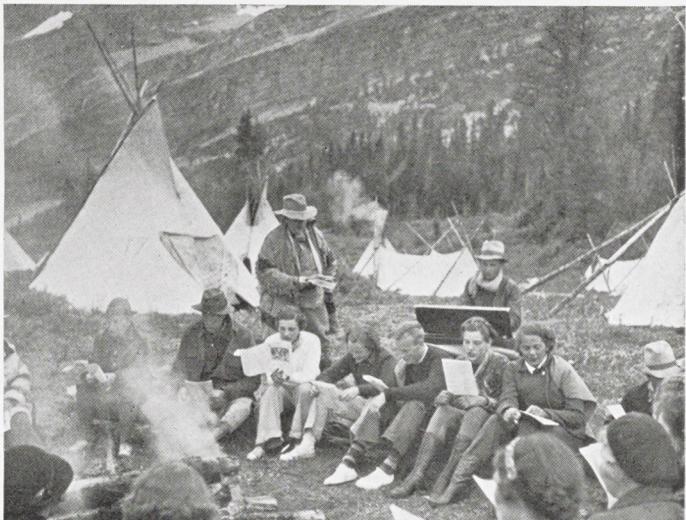

On the morning of the last day, the more ambitious members of the party rode back over the brow of Simpson Pass to the Lookout, where one is able to get a magnificent view of Egypt Lakes, Whistling Valley and Mount Ball. Then after an early lunch we all rode down Healey Creek to the big Sun Dance Teepee on Sundance Canyon, where a large number of friends had motored out from Banff to join us in the Pow-Wow.

In the preliminary meeting to discuss business, the slate of Officers, Committee and Council recommended by the Nominating Committee was unanimously approved. According to this, R. H. Palenske was re-elected to serve as President for a second year of office; Byron Harmon was elected an Honorary Member, and as this left a vacancy, Dr. C. Wesley Prowd was elected a Vice-President in his place. Added to the Executive Committee was the name of L. McI. Spackman. Added to Council were the names of Henry Gilbert, Helen D. Harbison, J. MacGaheran, D. E. Peddie and Jean Hembroff.

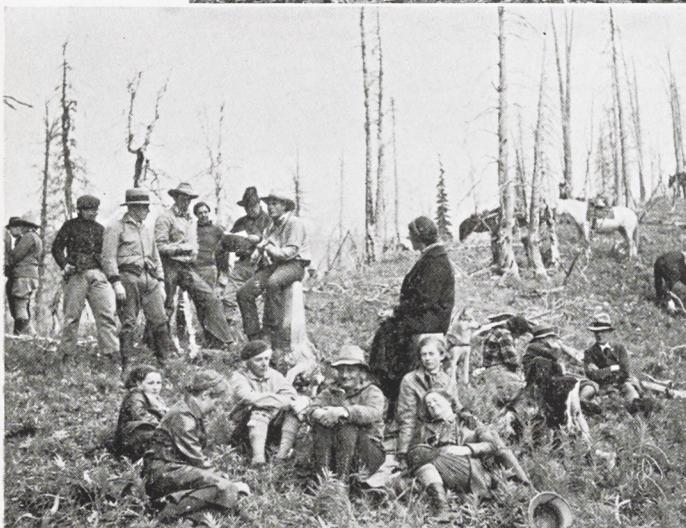

The Financial Statement showed a satisfactory balance with $729.86 cash on hand.

Then we heard one or two speeches, and yarns, heard a wonderful recitation by Mrs. Putnam Brinley, enjoyed the solos of Frances James, sang our community songs, listened once more to George Fisher, saw Claude Brewster and his braves dancing the Prairie Chicken Dance, and so closed a glorious Trail Ride with "Auld Lang Syne".

THE TRAIL OF '37

by Jean Hembroff

It was with hesitancy I signed my name to become a member of the 1937 Trail Ride. I knew horses were our means of conveyance, and the only horse I had ever ridden was fastened to rockers. My imagination, however, not being tethered, had, while upon "Hobby's" back, carried me to many places in Make Believe Land. Years flew by. I did what all little nursery riders do, grew, found other hobbies, and my good old horsey found a new rider and a new corral. Through the years though, has been carried the desire to ride again, a real horse, to a real destination. That desire was realized this summer. I became a Trail Rider!

It is true I was the "Greenest Dude". It is true "Croppy", my old faithful, was a little short on ears, but in spite of her lack of auditory apparatus and my lack of everything "horsey", we did get along!

Kananaskis Ranch did its best to harden me, and if being treated as I was is a hardening process, I'm all for becoming solid rock.

July the 30th dawned a bright day, but no brighter than the faces of some sixty prospective Trail Riders. Cheery hello's were being called back and forth. This to me, bespoke friendly people. I gathered then and there that the Trail Ride was one of those things that "Gets You", for here, like homing birds, had returned riders from all parts of the continent, to ride together once again and enjoy the beauties of the Canadian Rockies. Standing in a group I had pointed out to me, those, who through work, interest, and co-operation have made the Ride the annual event it is. There was the President R. H. Palenske, and three of the Vice-Presidents, Elizabeth Booz, Howard Sibbald, and Dan McCowan. The Secretary-Treasurer, J. Murray Gibbon was right on deck, chatting away with his old friends, Fletcher Brady, Dr. Gow, Dr. Prowd and Carl Rungius. There too, were the familiar figures of Colonel and Mrs. Moore and here and there, was standing, a most familiar Mountain sight. A Brewster!

Getting the Riders off would drive the average desk-sitter into the frenzy of a wild stallion, but to the Wranglers the horses are second nature. Between you and me, it's we Dudes who throw the Cowboys off their balance. Well, tags were tied to bags and to tails, cinches tightened, and off the 1937 cavalcade started. I turned in my saddle (by holding on to the horn), and took one look back in the direction of the Banff Springs Hotel. There was security and comfort. Then, I looked ahead at the Trail, Ah, there was adventure! My gypsy soul was stirred at the thought of it, so ahead I went, dancing through Sundance.

Mother Nature decided too much dancing was not good for us. In went the sun—out came dark clouds—down came the rain—on went the Riders. Thank God for ponchos!

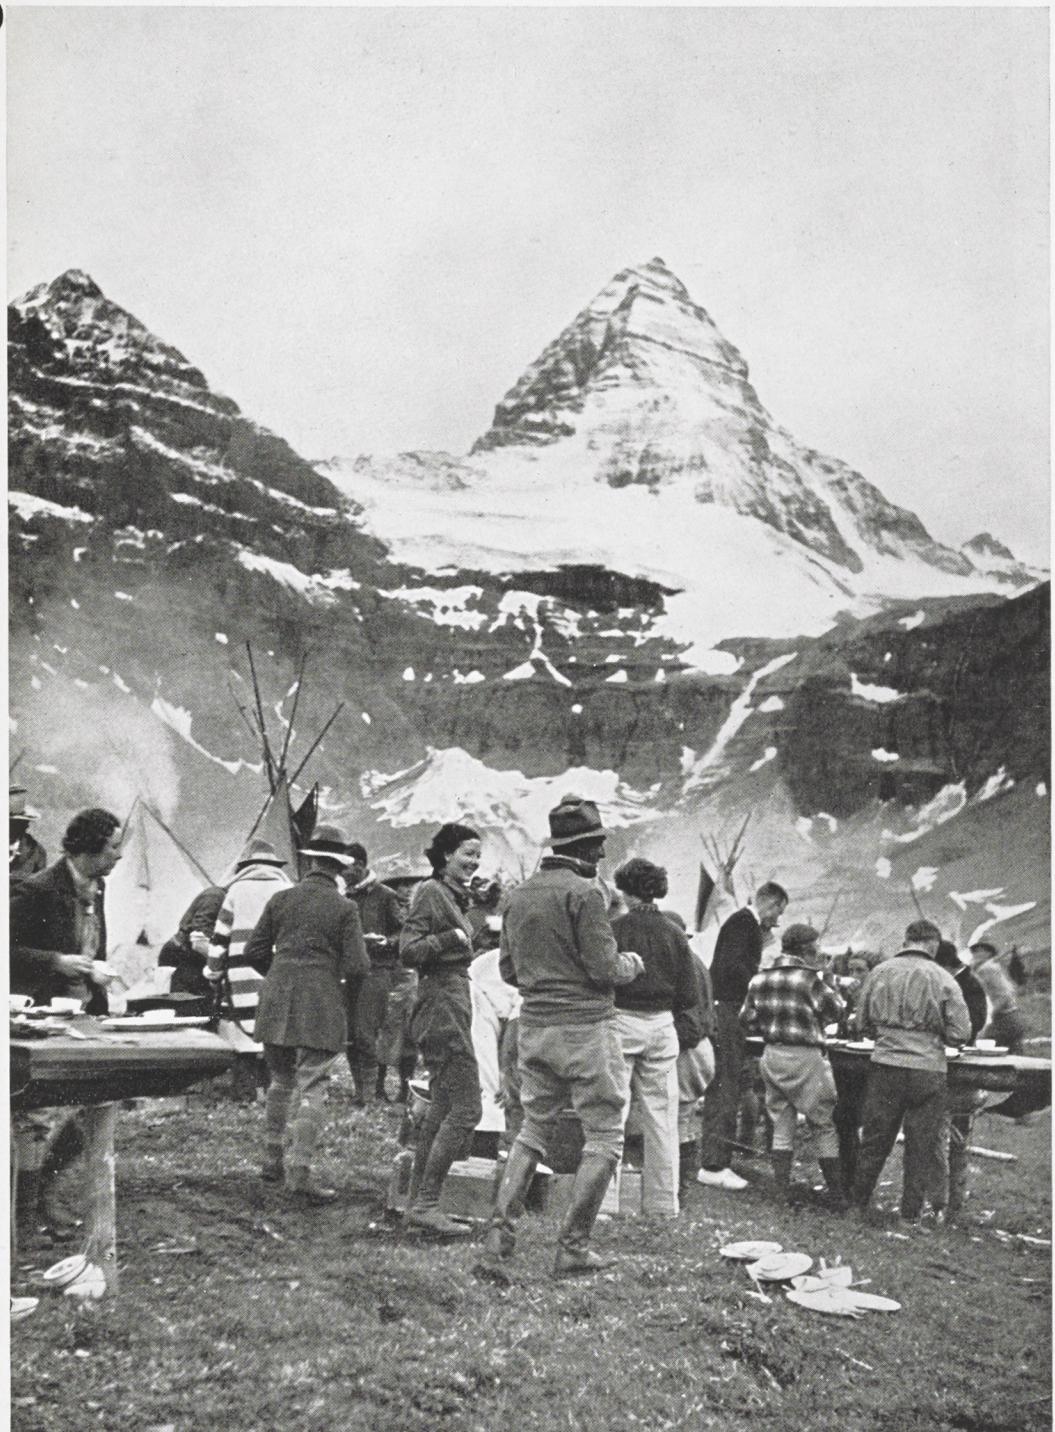

Our first night was spent at Brewster Creek Camp. The weather was damp, but not our spirits. How could they be? The teepee fires were burning, and is there anything more cheery than a teepee fire, some friends and a story or two? Then too, there were boughs to spread and sleeping bags to unroll (both new and thrilling experiences for Greenest Dude). When, after songs and cocoa, I zipped myself up for the night, I thought nothing had ever felt quite as comfortable as that little No. 13 C.P.R. sleeping bag.

Breakfast on the Ride is really worth getting up for. I never did find out how many flap-jacks were allowed per person. It is just as well I didn't. I'm certain I far exceeded the number Dr. Gow would have prescribed for any human. Ah! that's what the Mountains do for you!

Our second day began with "Hello's" on every side. One evening in Camp had done it. We were all acquainted now, and what an interesting and important assemblage I found myself a part of. Writers, Artists, Botanists, Musicians, Doctors, Photographers, they were all there. Even the Animal world was represented by the presence of "Gypsy of Georgia." From East and West, North and South, they had come, and here at the dawning of our second day we were one big happy party, trailing along together.

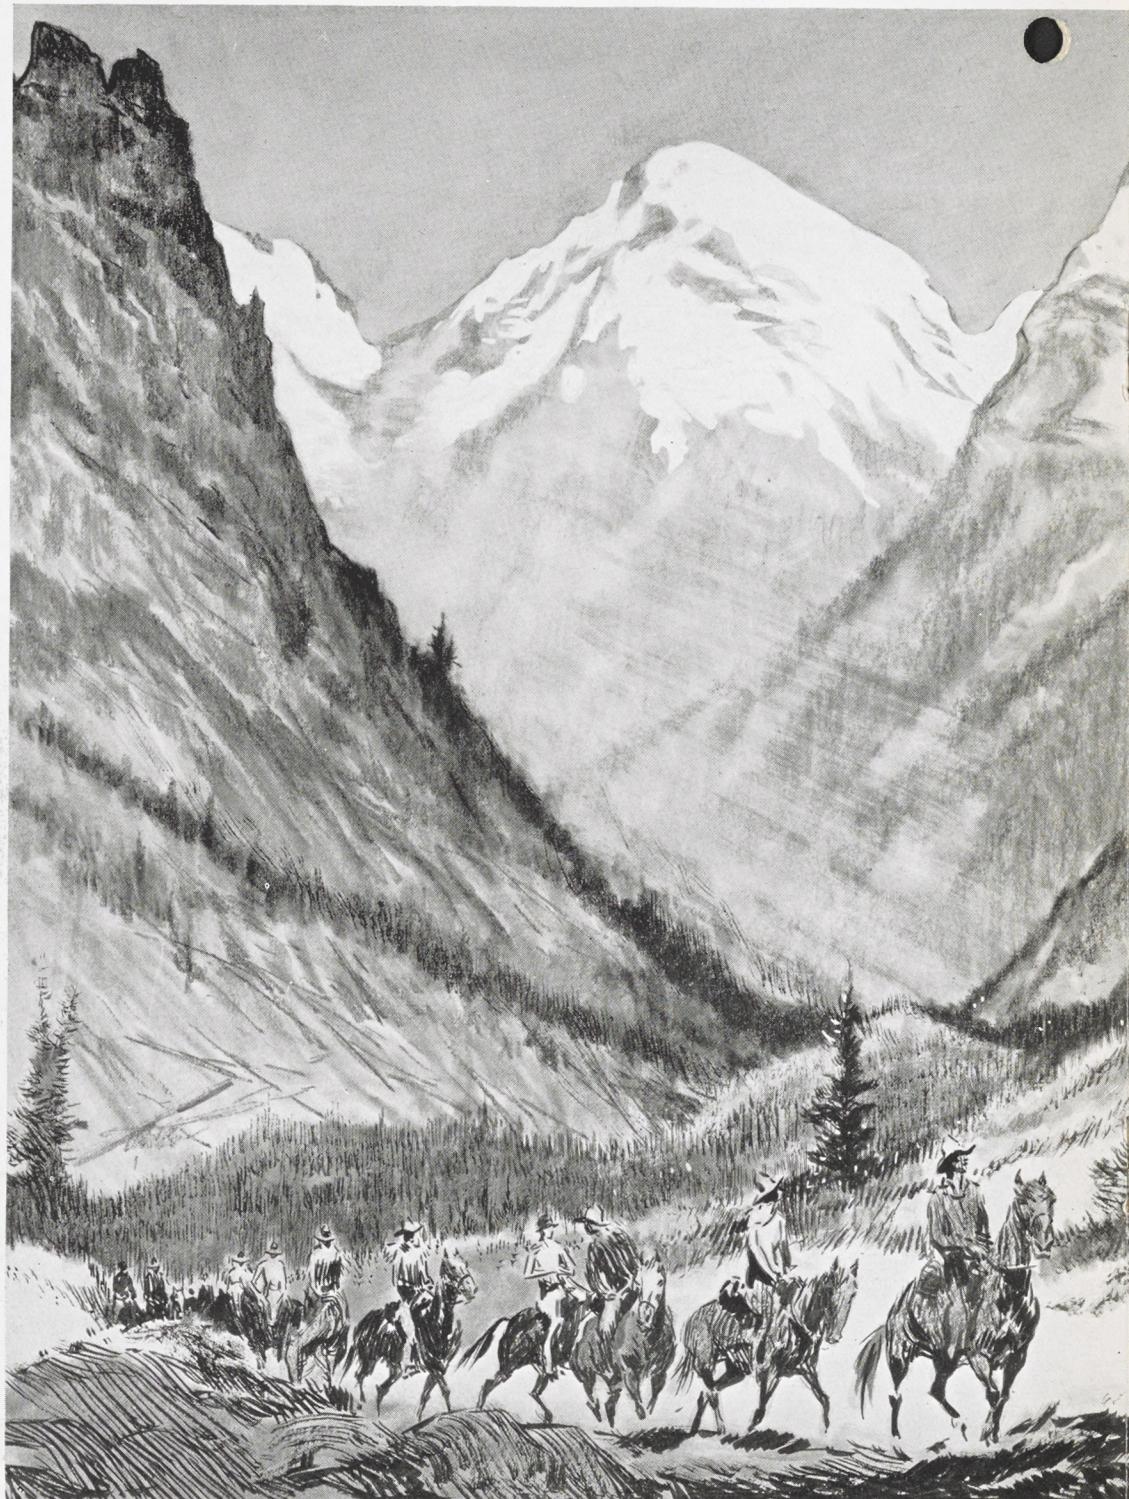

All day we rode through never to be forgotten scenes. You each have your own painted mental pictures. I'll not disturb them. I'll just bring, if I may, those pictures you hold, once again on your canvass of memories for a moment's reverie.

Do you remember the sight of those brave little pack ponies? Can you hear the jingle of the bells? The calls of the Wranglers? Can you smell the scent of the pines? Is your memory bright enough to picture those mountain flowers? Fire Weed, preaching it's own little sermon, "Protect Our Forests." Indian Paint Brush, making a red carpet for little Mountain Fairy Folk to dance upon. The purple Heather, and yellow Gorse, and the Forget-Me-Nots. Will you ever forget those little blue Forget-Me-Nots? No! neither will I!

Up hill and down, like a brightly colored caterpillar we went. Fording streams, over rocks, through brush, along Mountain precipices, (where I said every prayer I ever knew forwards and backwards)—on and still on, until at last before us rose Mount Assiniboine. 11,860 feet of towering splendour. It made me want to take off my hat, and bow. Anything that gives one that feeling, is, I think worth riding to find.

Teepees were put up, then cameras clicked and movies hummed, until Mount Assiniboine, modest and blushing, hid herself behind a curtain of snowflakes.

The Teepees were gay that night. The Vagabonds had to "stay put". Indoor sports of a Trail Ride variety were indulged in. Most of us squatted on our sleeping bags, toes pointing toward the fire, and hands holding socks to be dried. Now and again the teepee flap would open and in would come the braves of the great outdoors. Jim, with more firewood; Ole with boughs; or if the flap opened a bit wider than usual, it would admit George and his guitar to sing "Alimony" for us.

One of the highlights of our stay at Assiniboine was "tea" at Erling Strom's. Being a Britisher, I just couldn't resist the invitation. I lost my "soles" on the mountain slopes, but the tea was worth it!

Our last night was spent at Sunshine Camp, and what a happy camp it was. It thawed us out, inwardly, and outwardly... Yodlers, singers, and mouth-organ artists, worked overtime, and it was reluctantly that we crawled into our sleeping bags for our last night's sleep up in the Mountains against the sky.

The last day arrived. I watched the flapjacks being made, the coffee boiling, the teepees fall, and the pack horses start off. I wanted to remember it all.

Down and around—around and down, we went, heading for our last round-up. It was late afternoon when Greenest Dude and Croppy found themselves fourth from the front, actually trotting, up to the Pow-Wow tent. I wonder did anyone see me when I bid Croppy good-bye. I kissed her nose. Well, I don't mind if you did. She was a little out of shape, and had frost bitten ears, but I loved her!

The Pow-Wow was a real climax. We were entertained by Frances James, the Quintuplets, Mrs. Brinley (The Dutchess), Allan Crawford, and even Gypsy did his part by barking out a fond farewell from his Mistress and Master, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Lang.

So ended the 1937 Trail Ride. Each rider as he left the Pow Wow tightened the cord around his dunnage-bag of memories. None must be lost—they were too precious.

The weather gave us experiences aplenty, but let us remember, the doings which brought the most to endure make the best yarns in the telling!

THE REGINALD TOWNSEND CUP

Amateur photographers who took part in the Trail Ride are reminded that through the generosity of Reginald Townsend, one of the Charter Members of the Trail Riders and formerly Editor of Country Life in America, there is a trophy presented each year to whoever sends in the best photograph taken on the Trail Ride. This trophy is a replica of a silver cup, on which is engraved the name of the winner. The adjudication is made by "three qualified judges, none of whom shall be a Trail Rider." Entries for this contest should be sent in the form of prints contained in an envelope marked only by a nom de plume and mailed to the Secretary-Treasurer, Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, Room 324 Windsor Station, Montreal. In a separate envelope the contestant should send to the Secretary another envelope containing on the outside the nom de plume and containing inside the name and address of the Trail Rider. Entries should be sent to arrive in Montreal not later than March 1st, 1938.

Assiniboine was not the end of trail riding this Summer for all of us. A party was made up for a twenty-two day ride under the aegis of Claude Brewster to the Columbia Ice Fields.
